Former United States Senator Edward W. Carmack was born near Cas-Tenn., Nov. 5, 1858. He had an acaed in Columbia, Tenu., and was a nember of the legislature of 1884. He was a delegate to the national democratic convention of 1896, and member of congress 1897-1901, from the Tenth congressional district of Tennessee. He served with distinction in the United States senate for six years, being defeated for re-election in the primary a little over a year ago by ex-Gov. Robert L. Taylor.

Senator Carmack then resumed the practice of law in Memphis, which was then his home, but within a few months removed to Nashville.

Last spring he opposed Gov. Petteron for the democratic gubernatorial nomination, championing the cause of state-wide probibition. He was defeatd. Shortly after his defeat Mr. Carmack was offered the editorship of the Nashville Tennessean. He accept-I the offer, and since then and for the last two months has been at the head of the Nashville morning paper which was first started by Luke Lea.
